

Winifred Owens (1911-2000)

Winifred Owens studied at the Broadmoor Art Academy in Colorado Springs. She painted in oils and is known for her Western themes and landscapes. Her styles varied from abstraction to realist to representational and some paintings have a folk art feeling.

Owens was a member of the Taos Art Colony, and many of her paintings are of the Taos and Santa Fe area. These paintings are considered very desirable and are among those most coveted.

Owens has exhibited at the Smithsonian Institute and throughout the Southwest. She is listed in Who Was Who in American Art.
